Who we are

Designed, developed and assembled in the Netherlands,
Karizma Luce creates architectural lighting that combines refined design, advanced optics and extensive configuration possibilities.

Every luminaire is built to order around the needs of the project, giving architects and lighting designers the freedom to realise their vision without compromise.

We are pleased to meet you.

What we do

From discreet recessed downlights to track systems, suspended luminaires and outdoor lighting, our collection covers a wide range of architectural applications.

Every luminaire is developed with the same goal: delivering the right light for the space while maintaining excellent visual comfort and a timeless appearance.

How we work

---

Every project is different, your lighting should be too. Different spaces call for different optics, light outputs, colour temperatures, controls and finishes.

That's why our luminaires are designed, developed and assembled in the Netherlands. Rather than manufacturing fixed product variants, every luminaire is assembled to order and configured to the requirements of the project.

This isn't a special service, it's the way we work.

For projects that require something beyond our standard configuration options, we can often develop a fully customised solution together with our customers.

Your lighting partner

A successful lighting project is built on more than quality products. It requires technical knowledge, clear communication and the flexibility to respond when requirements change.

From the first concept through specification, production and installation, we work closely with architects, lighting designers, electrical consultants and installers to find the right solution for every project.

Whether it's selecting the right optics, configuring a luminaire, developing a custom solution or answering technical questions, our team is there to support you throughout the entire process.

Because the best projects are built through collaboration.
